Notes and Images

Left FB57 – misperfed so that left edge is impeforate in error.

Right FB58 – trimmed perfs on right of stamps.

FL1 The stamps in this booklet come in a variety of shades and even types.

I don't know how many cylinders were used, but either multiple cylinders or various mixes of ink produced these results.

Please order according to the booklet you would like.

Stamp Collecting

The Penny Black was not just the first stamp in the world, it also heralded the start of a new leisure activity – stamp collecting. But as millions of enthusiasts have discovered, there is more to the hobby than the mere acquisition of stamps.

Stamps can be educational – showing historical, geographical or political change. A reflection of current affairs, for example, can be seen in the designs, overprints, change of name, or the variations in currency.

GGA2 – unusual misalignment of stamps results in one having perforations missing diagonally on the lower left corner.

Priced as defective!

Mixed content booklets – please note the layout of this section is different. Our prices are now in coloured columns.
